COUNTY UNIT LAW

Its Extension to All the Counties Is Reported Favorably in House.

Cuts Out Cities First Four Classes From Exemption

Chairman Enlow, of the Committee on Public Morals, reported favorably to the House on January 28 the Waggoner bill providing for an extension of the county unit law uniformly to all counties of the State. This cuts out cities of the first four classes exempt under the present law, and is in line with Governor Wilson's recommendation and Ex-Gov. Beckham's efforts.

Resolutions Adopted By the Educational Conference at Frankfort January 23d.

An Educational Conference met in Frankfort January 23, to plan for an educational campaign in Kentucky. The College Association, the K. E. A., the State Development Association and the School Improvement League were represented at the Conference. A joint meeting was held with the Committees on Education from the Senate and House. The following were adopted:

Resolved, 1. The physical, moral and social improvement of the schools of the State.

2. The establishment of at least one good high school in each county of the State.

3. The establishment of an efficient graded school system, to apply equally to the rural, town and urban districts.

Dyspepsia is our national ailment. Burdock Blood Bitters is the national cure for it. It strengthens stomach membranes, promotes flow of digestive juices, purifies the blood, builds you up.

BANKRUPTCY.

Lexington Railroad Man Owes Only $173.20.

Although but $173.20 in debt, William O. Nickell, of Lexington, filed a petition in bankruptcy in the Federal Court at Frankfort. The assets of Mr. Nickell consist of $47 salary coming to him from the C. & O. railroad which he claims as exempt under the law.

$1,900 Increase For the Circuit Judges.

The Senate Committee on Courts of Justice agreed to recommend raising the salaries of Circuit Judges in the State from $3,000 to $4,900 per annum. The bill as introduced provided for $5,000.

POOL ROOMS

AND BUCKET SHOPS IN FOR IT.

Legislature Likely to Put These Gambling Games Out of Business.

Pool-room and bucket-shop gambling in Kentucky will have received their death blow if the bills introduced in the Legislature by Representatives Simmons, of Covington, and Markolf, of Louisville, are passed. There is little doubt that both of these measures will go through like a whirlwind.

The Kentucky Racing Commission recommends the passage of the anti-poolroom law, the breeders of light harness horses demand it and the people generally are in open revolt against the continued operations of the pool rooms. They are regarded a menace to society, wealth and good common law, so that it is likely when the bill comes before the progressive and intelligent members of the General Assembly there will not be a dissenting vote.

Help Is At Hand for Tobacco Growers.

The friends of the tobacco growers feel that a long step in the way of legislation favorable to their interests was taken when the Committee on Agriculture unanimously agreed to make a favorable report on the bill of Representative W. C. McChord, which practically places the police powers of the State in charge of the tobacco interests.

The tobacco industry as provided by the bill comes directly under the Commissioner of Agriculture, who through an assistant to be named for this purpose, will deal directly with the growers, buyers, manufacturers, etc. To defray the expense of this supervision, a tax of ten cents per 1,000 pounds of tobacco sold for the purpose of manufacture is provided.

The same committee has acted favorably on the bill of Representative Cecilias which fixes a penalty for the seller who violates his pledge by selling tobacco in pool and also a penalty for the buyer.

$50 Reward.

I will give a reward of $50.00 for the arrest and conviction of the person who removed the signboard on my land on the Levee pike in Montgomery County, Ky., upon which I had painted the word "sooted" and fastened to a tree on said farm in a conspicuous place. The same reward will be given for the arrest and conviction of any person who may hereafter remove one of said signs.

TOBACCO MEN

Wanted by Texas and Other States--Kentuckians Offered Lands Where There "Is No Trust."

Hopkinsville, Ky., Jan. 28.—A strong bid is being made by other States to get the growers away from Kentucky, as a result of the tobacco troubles. Every day in the papers of this and surrounding cities there appear advertisements outlining the advantage of growing tobacco in Texas, Tennessee and Florida, and each article holds forth there is "no outrageous trust" there.

OPEN MARKET AT MAYSVILLE

City Council Refuses to Oust the American Tobacco Co.

The special meeting of the City Council, called by the Mayor of Maysville upon a petition signed by eleven Councilmen and a large number of business men to pass an ordinance compelling the American Tobacco Company to cease buying or receiving tobacco to their plant in this city, was the most largely attended and most strenuous meeting ever held in Maysville.

All day Monday of last week the streets had groups of farmers arguing the situation and when the Mayor called the meeting at 2 o'clock the court house was packed to the walls. After the call was read the Mayor stated that he would like to hear from both sides of the question.

Former Congressman Kehoe, County Judge Newell and County Attorney Slattery spoke for the Equity people, and their main arguments were that they thought it detrimental to human life and the property interests of this city to allow the tobacco company to continue to buy and receive tobacco. They cited the Hopkinsville and Russellville riots.

City Attorney Collins and Federal Judge A. M. J. Cochran spoke against the passage of such an ordinance. Judge Cochran said that he thought it would be a recognition to the world at large that Maysville was not able to take care of its interests and citizens, and he thought it unwise to pass such a law; that he thought the city and county officers were capable of upholding the law. Mr. Collins made an eloquent appeal for maintaining all the business in Maysville.

The Mayor then put the question, which resulted as follows: For the ordinance, 5. Against, 7. The Mayor declared the ordinance lost. The American Tobacco Company's large plant is guarded by twenty-five men.

EQUITY TOBACCO SOLD.

Twenty Hogsheds Go to Louisville Firm.

The Burley Tobacco Society at Winchester, Ky., on January 28th sold to a Louisville factory twenty hogsheds (about 20,000 pounds) of the 1906 crop. Mr. Hayes, the purchaser, stated that if the hogsheds showed up to the samples, larger purchases would be made.

CAPITOL INQUIRY.

Charges of Graft, Fraud and Extravagance to Be Investigated.

This resolution, offered by Mr. Wilson at Frankfort, will recall former declarations on the stump: Whereas, In the recent political campaign it was freely and regularly stated and charged by the Republican candidates for State offices in public speeches that the State Capitol Commission employed an architect to furnish plans and specifications for the new State Capitol building at an exorbitant fee, and

Whereas, it was implicitly stated, if not positively charged, that there was a great deal of graft, extravagance and fraud connected with the letting of the contracts, and the erection of the said new Capitol building, and

Whereas, the Kentucky State Capitol Commission was by the same parties compared with the State Capitol Commission of Pennsylvania, where extravagance, fraud and graft is admitted by all men to have run rampant; and, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the Speaker of the House of Representatives appoint a commission, composed of five Representatives, whose duty it shall be to thoroughly investigate the charges of graft, extravagance and fraud and report its findings back to this House as soon as it can conveniently do so.

This committee shall have the power to summon and examine witnesses who profess or who have professed to know anything about these charges of alleged graft, extravagance and fraud.

The resolution, amended by Mr. Haswell to the effect that the commission shall consist of three Democrats and two Republicans, was adopted.

DEATHS.

In Kentucky One of Every Seven Died With This Dread Disease.

The American Tuberculosis Exhibition opened in Frankfort on Monday, where it is hoped to impress upon the legislators and others from all over the State the needs and possibilities of prosecuting the Anti-Tuberculosis movement in every county of the State.

The two week's stay in Louisville was marked by the greatest interest and every business and social organization in the city co-operated to make it a complete success. There was a daily attendance of 3,000 and some of the results have already begun to be seen. The Louisville Health Department has taken an active hand in the work, the Police Department has begun to enforce the Anti-Spitting ordinance, and the Street Railway Company has announced its intention of disinfecting its cars.

The make-up of the Exhibition consists of photographs and many models of buildings for the open air treatment of consumption. Illustrated lectures are delivered.

It is being sent to Frankfort by the Kentucky and the Lexington Anti-Tuberculosis Association which will share the expenses. There have already been presented before this session of the Legislature a number of bills against tuberculosis. Only two States—California and Tennessee—surpass Kentucky in the number of deaths from this disease. One out of every seven die from it in Kentucky.

Leaving Frankfort the Exhibition will go to Lexington.

MORE DESIRABLE THAN BEAUTY.

Writer Makes Good Argument in Favor of Neatness.

We all long for beauty, but there is within the grasp of all women something even more desirable than beauty—namely, exquisite neatness. The writer has decried on the desirability of neatness more than once, but it is something that will never be talked about more than once, or twice, or even a dozen times. "Faith," says Pat, when reproved for lying, "Oh have such a respect for Truth, Oh was not be dragging her out on every occasion." The writer differs in this respect from Pat. She has such a respect for neatness that she would be dragging her out on every occasion.

A man who had traveled much and seen many women in many countries, said the other day, "I prefer neatness to beauty. Beauty does not last, while the woman of 50 can still be charmingly neat." By neatness is meant more than simple tidiness. It included style and care and taste and the indefinable art of putting on one's clothes properly. It is a faculty, after that Canadian women do not possess to any extent, says a writer in the Montreal Herald. They doubtless inherit the lack of it from their English ancestors, who are noticeably untidy. The mass of Englishwomen do not seem to know the meaning of the word. Their skirts and belts are always sagging at the back. Their hair is never beautifully coiffed like the Frenchwoman's, their whole appearance is frowny to an extreme. Of course, this does not apply to all Englishwomen. There are exceptions to every rule. On the other hand, the American woman is neat, and hence smart, for it is impossible to be smart without perfect neatness. They have a trim, trim way of wearing their clothes that gives a style to the cheapest ready-made. If you cannot be beautiful you can at least be charmingly neat. And neatness has no attractiveness that more beauty lacks.

Diablo in the Past.

More diablo discoveries. In the National Library at Paris are two priates, one entitled "The Game of Diablo at the Beginning of the Last Century," the other entitled "The Devil for Four (the old diablo)." Two couples are playing diablo excitedly in a room; the furniture is upset and the mirrors broken. The diablo is a game, the "Good Devil, How He Goes!" A young woman throws a blue simple fold in the air, and from her feet fall pieces of gold and silver. A picture is another woman, with her diablo cord round the neck of a man, with the inscription below: "See how we lead them!" A diablo is a game, a favor in France in 1812. It was then, according to the Florentine correspondence, imported from England, and an English caricature of a later date depicts a great Wellington sending to St. Helena's a very little Napoleon riding on a diablo. Long before the revolution of 1793 some diablo was in Peking sent an exact reproduction of diablo to a French minister of state who collected Chinese curiosities. The Chinese diablo has since been forgotten everything we are to be learning—Dundee Advertiser

A Sailor and a Chow Dog.

At the hour when women were making afternoon calls one day last week a man attired in the uniform of a sailor in the navy attracted a good deal of attention in West Fifty-fourth street, New York, by something he carried under his right arm, a something that looked at first like a white bundle, but which, close inspection proved to be a Chinese chow dog. The sailor was trying to sell. The little animal was unusual enough in itself to catch the eyes of the curious who stopped to speak to the sailor about it. But more unusual than that was the way in which they met. The animal was not a chow dog, but a "sleeve" for his front and hind legs, but he also had his furry head covered with the veritable sailor's head, with a red band around the front of it, the cap being tied under his neck with red ribbons. The "sleeve" attracted quite as much notice as the chow dog did, so long as its owner remained in sight on the block.

Future Hardwood Supply.

America's future hardwood supply must come mainly from the Appalachian mountains, according to the forest service. The other chief centers of production are now in the lake states and lower Mississippi valley, but in the former the presence of hard woods is an almost certain indication of rich soil, and the tracts once cleared are turned to agricultural uses. In Arkansas, Louisiana and Mississippi the production of hard woods has reached its height, and in Missouri and Texas it has begun to decline. The Appalachians contain the largest body of this timber remaining in the United States, and have the greatest variety of species. Rightly managed, their forests would produce 20,000,000,000 feet per year, since their soil and climate combine to make heavy stands and cause rapid growth. Much of this area, however, has been so damaged by fire and cutting that it will be years before its 75,000,000 acres are fully productive—Leslie's Weekly.

King and Crown Prince of Portugal Shot While Going to Palace.

REPUBLICAN FORM OF GOVERNMENT DESIRED.

King Carlos of Portugal and the Crown Prince Luiz Philippe were assassinated and the King's second son, the Infant Manuel, was slightly wounded, in Lisbon, Queen Amelia, who sought to save the Crown Prince's life by throwing herself upon him, escaped unhurt. The royal party were in a carriage on their way to the palace when a band of men opened fire with revolvers. The police guard killed three of the assassins. The King and the Crown Prince were each shot three times and died in a few minutes.

As the carriage with Royal family turned a street corner the assassins who had been seated spring forward with carbine guns and opened fire.

The second son, Manuel, who becomes King is only 19 years old. He was shot twice but not dangerously.

FLAG

Brought Back to America from Britain.

The flag of the American man of war Chesapeake and the Balanava Buzle, two valuable war relics of a collection of antiques, were sold in London, England, Thursday at auction sale for American buyers. The Chesapeake flag was captured in the fight with the British ship Shannon in 1812. The flag was sold for $12,500 to a London art dealer, who also purchased the Buzle for $1,500. It was upon this instrument that the order to the famous light brigade to charge at the battle of Balanava was sounded.

The dealer admitted that he purchased for parties in America. There was a rumor that he was acting for Cornelius Vanderbilt, but this was subsequently denied, and London does not yet know into whose hands the flag and Buzle have fallen.

The auction of the Middlebrook curios has been going on for two days and has attracted much attention. When the time came to put up the flag the auction room was so crowded that many persons were unable to obtain admission. The man who secured the flag started with an offer of $100.

Move for a Public Building in Mt. Sterling.

In the House of Representatives, January 27, 1908, Mr. Langley introduced the following bill, which was referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds and ordered to be printed.

A Bill to authorize the acquisition of a site and the erection of a Federal building at Mount Sterling, Kentucky.

Be enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

That the Secretary of the Treasury be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to acquire, by purchase, condemnation or otherwise, a suitable site in the city of Mount Sterling, Kentucky, and to cause to be erected thereon a suitable building, with fireproof vaults, heating and ventilating apparatus and approaches, complete, for the accommodation of the post-office and other Government offices in said city, at a total limit of cost of one hundred thousand dollars.

See 2. That the building when constructed shall be unexposed to danger from fire in adjacent buildings by an open space of at least forty feet on each side, including streets and alleys.

Nursing Mothers and

Over-burdened Women
In all stations of life, whose vigor and vitality may have been undermined and broken down by over-work, exacting social duties, the too frequent bearing of children, or other causes, will find in Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription the most potent, invigorating restorative strength ever devised for their special benefit. Nursing mothers will find it especially valuable in sustaining their strength and promoting an abundant milk supply for the child. Expectant mothers, too, will find it a priceless aid in preparing the system for baby's coming and making the ordeal comparatively painless. It can be taken in any stage or condition of the female system.

Delicate, Nervous, Weak women, who suffer from frequent headaches, backache, dragging-down distress low down in the abdomen, or from painful or irregular monthly periods, pinching or disordered eruption in stomach, dizziness or faintness, see imaginary necks or spots floating before eyes, have disordered, pelvic catarrhal drain, indolence, auto-version or retro-version or other displacement of parts will, whether they experience many or only a few of the above symptoms, find relief and a permanent cure by using faithfully and lastingly Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

This world-famed specific for women's weakness and peculiar ailments is a pure glyceric extract of the choicest and most medicinal roots without a drop of alcohol in its make-up. All its ingredients are printed in plain English on its bottle wrapper and attested under oath. Dr. Pierce thus invites the fullest investigation of his formula knowing that it will be found to merit and make the best known to the most advanced medical science of all the different scientific preparations for the cure of women's peculiar weaknesses and ailments.

If you want to know more about the composition and professional endorsement of the "Favorite Prescription," send postal card requests to Dr. J. C. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., for his free booklet treating of same.

You can't afford to accept as a substitute for this remedy of famous name, a cheap, secret nostrum of unknown composition. Don't do so.

WINTER EGGS.

What Food Shall Be Given.

The work of producing eggs in winter at a profit is a profitable business when properly managed, but with neglect it is a waste of feed. Having experimented quite a little in the feeding for eggs during the winter season when they bring a good price, I will here just briefly mention a few facts that must be kept in mind if you would have eggs at this time at a profit.

Before you try to make the hens lay by strong feeding, see that you have a strong building for them.

Keep the fowls comfortable. The building must be tight enough to keep out all drafts, and the snow, but must have some ventilation.

If you want eggs, do not allow the hens to walk around in the snow, for it is the worst thing to cut down egg production; better keep them up for a day or so, and then shovel off the snow so they will have a bare place to stand when turned out.

The next thing to look to is the feeding question. If you want eggs at this time, feed a ration that it will be possible for the hen to produce eggs. The eggs have to be produced from the element contained in the food. Many feed just what they have on hand, many times corn is the only grain on hand; the hens are fed on this exclusively, and in doing this they cannot expect to get eggs. Corn is too fattening, and contains too low a per cent. of the element protein for profitable egg production when fed alone but as a part feed for hens in winter I don't think there is anything better.

The finest thing to feed is green cut bone, which is the best egg producing food known. Get the fresh bones from the butcher, and cut in a bone cutter. Some claim to feed all the hens will eat about twice a week, but I like to feed a little each day, and occasionally skip a day.

The larger the variety you can get the better. Bran is a fine feed, both dry and in the mash. Cool the small potatoes and parings and mash in some bran and meal with a little oil meal. If you want eggs at a profit feed well.

Some green food is a fine thing and see that the fowls have plenty of water. On very cold days I sometimes warm the water.—E. J. Waterstrip, Marshallfield, Mo., in Indiana Farmer.

HAD RIGHT

To Discharge Employee Because He Belonged to Labor Organization Says United States Supreme Court.

Washington, Jan. 27.—The constitutionality of the act of Congress of June 1, 1898, prohibiting railroad companies engaged in interstate commerce from discriminating against members of labor organizations in the matter of employment came into question by the case of William Adair vs. United States, which was decided by the Supreme Court of United States today favorable to Adair. The opinion was written by Justice Harlan, and holds the law to be repugnant to the constitution. The court held that Adair, master mechanic of the Louisville & Nashville Railroad Company had a right to discharge an employee because he was a member of the labor organization just as it was his employee's right to quit such employment because of his membership in such organization. Such a course, the decision added, might be unwise, but regarded as a matter of right, there could be no doubt. Congress could not under the constitution authorize the violation of contracts under the guise of protecting interstate commerce.

The case came to the court on a writ of error from the United States District Court for the Eastern District of Kentucky. Adair is master mechanic of the Louisville and Nashville Railroad Company and he was proceeded against on a charge of threatening to discharge from the employ of the company a locomotive engineer named Coppage because the latter was a member of a labor union. The act of 1898, which is one of the results of the great Chicago strike was invoked for Coppage's protection, and the District Court fined Adair $100.

Daniel Up To Date.

Jimmy, aged five, was told the story of Daniel in the lion's den, by his grandmother. When she had finished the story she asked Jimmy what he thought Daniel did the very first thing when he found he was saved from the lions. "Oh, I guess he telephoned home to his wife to tell her he was alright," answered Jimmy.—Philadelphia Record.

She Was in No Hurry.

The Reverend Dr. Wallace, new pastor of the East End Baptist Church, brought a new one with him.

According to the story a Boston girl got on the street car one day carrying one of those muffs the size of an ordinary hussock. She had only one hand in the muff. A young man sitting next to her took advantage of the opportunity to slip his hand into the unoccupied end of the muff.

The Boston girl turned upon him severely. "I could have you arrested for such a familiarity," said she. "But," she added, "I'm from Boston and I propose to keep calm. Now, I'll just give you ten minutes to let go of my hand."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

PISTOLS.

Do You Carry One? If Not, Why Not?

We of Kentucky cannot point with any great degree of satisfaction to the habit of pistol toting that prevails in this State. It seems that the general idea that a boy inherits is that he should own a pistol. Last Monday I received a letter from a fifteen year old boy that aptly illustrated the prevalent idea. He wrote: "I do not own or carry a deadly weapon." Now, naturally we would suppose that a boy of fifteen would not carry a weapon, yet the fact that this boy mentions the fact that he does not carry concealed weapons indicates that is the custom of his associates of like age to carry them.

This weapon carrying habit of Kentuckians is responsible for much of the unsavory reputation that the State has abroad, and yet it seems that legislation against it does not prevent it. There has been a great deal of agitation for a law making it a felony to carry a deadly weapon concealed. Yet it is doubtful if that would lessen the evil. It would put the law abiding citizens at a disadvantage. Be the penalty fine or capital punishment the bullies would violate it. The practice will have to be cured in other ways. There must be a sentiment created that will make the habit odious.

About as good a way to render the habit obnoxious would be to enact a law allowing men to take out license to carry concealed weapons, requiring all who take out license to wear in a conspicuous place on their person a badge proclaiming that they are a "pistol toter," and have a heavy penalty attached for carrying one without a badge, or failing to wear the badge during the life of the license. The very fact that men could carry weapons without violating the law would go far to discourage the habit. Then the making a man peculiarly conspicuous by means of the badge would bring many to look at the practice in the light of sensible, reasonable men. Make the habit contemptible and men will turn from it. It is a silly, useless and degrading practice, and needs to be relegated to the rear.—The Jackson Democrat or elsewhere.

Epilepsy Fits St. Vitus Dance

Are nerve diseases, and unless checked, lead to destruction of both mind and body. The weak, shattered nerves must have something to strengthen and build them back to health. Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine is a remarkable nerve tonic and stimulant. It strengthens the nerves, relieves the nervous strain, and induces refreshing body-building sleep and rest. Persistent use seldom fails to relieve these afflictions.

"It was taken with epileptic fits; had eleven in less than 12 hours. My father sent for our family physician, but he could do very little for me, and I grew worse every day, and at last had three doctors with me, and I still got worse. My father heard of Dr. Miles' medicine and bought a bottle of Nervine and a box of Nerve and Liver Pills. I had taken only a few doses until I began to feel better. I took 15 bottles, and cured me sound and well. It has been worth all the world to me, and I recommend it wherever I go. You may use this as a life-long tonic, and it is the best of health, and feel that my life and health is due to this wonderful medicine."—W. L. HARRIS, R. F. D. No. 2, Boston, Ga.

SCHOOLS

Kentucky Compared to Other States.

Could public attention be concentrated upon the relative position Kentucky holds among her sister States regarding her public schools, I believe that the patriotism of Kentuckians would be so aroused that they would banish forever this stinging disgrace of illiteracy.

Kentucky spends about 21 million dollars on her schools annually; Illinois, 21 millions; Massachusetts, 16; Missouri, Indiana, Minnesota, Mississippi and California each from 8 to 10 millions.

This is equal to about $8.50 per child in Kentucky, based upon the average attendance; about $42 in California and Massachusetts; in the other States named, $21 to $30 per child.

The average child in Kentucky gets about 70 days of schooling per year; other States give from 100 to 146 days.

What are the results obtained? In Kentucky 14.3 per cent. of her native born white male adults are illiterates, while in the other States named it ranges from 4.4 per cent. down to 1 per cent. for Minnesota and .9 per cent. for Massachusetts.

A further analysis of this comparison gives what I think is the secret of these results and conditions, and that is, their dependence, in a large measure, upon that local interest, that generally comes with local aid.

Local means in Kentucky furnishes only 32 per cent. of our school money, in Massachusetts 96 per cent. in Illinois and Missouri 87 per cent., in the other States 53 to 70 per cent.

For every $100 of property value in Kentucky, her schools get 18 cents; in Massachusetts, 30 cents, and in other States 20 to 25 cents.

Simple Home-Made Treatment Said to Overcome Rheumatism.

When an eminent authority announced in the Scranton (Pa.) Times that he had found a new way to treat that dread American disease, Rheumatism, with just common, every day drugs found in any drug store, the physicians were slow indeed to attach much importance to his claims. This was only a few months ago. Today nearly every newspaper in the country, even the metropolitan dailies, is announcing it and the splendid results achieved. It is so simple that anyone can prepare it at home at small cost. It is made up as follows: Get from any good prescription pharmacy Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces. Mix by shaking in a bottle and take in teaspoonful doses after each meal and at bedtime. These are all simple ingredients, making an absolutely harmless home remedy at little cost.

Rheumatism, as every one knows, is a symptom of deranged kidneys. It is a condition produced by the failure of the kidneys to properly filter or strain from the blood the uric acid and other matter which, if not eradicated, either in the urine or through the skin pores, remains in the blood, decomposes and forms about the joints and muscles, causing the untold suffering and deformity of rheumatism.

This prescription is said to be a splendid healing, cleansing and invigorating tonic to the kidneys, and gives almost immediate relief in all forms of bladder and urinary troubles and backache. He also warns people in a leading New York paper against the indiscriminate use of many patent medicines.
